Alcohol at Stanford Overview 2015–16

Framing the Issue:

- Stanford is addressing the issue of high-risk drinking in a proactive and comprehensive manner.
- The university is most concerned with reducing high-risk drinking and its related consequences such as blackouts, hangovers, regretted actions and sexual assaults.
- Stanford data shows that Stanford undergraduate students past 30 day drinking rates are higher than national averages, however heavy episodic drinking rates are on par with national averages.
- Emergency room student alcohol transports trended lower for a fourth straight year from the five-year running average.

Progress and Ongoing Initiatives:

- The Office of Alcohol Policy and Education (OAPE), which is staffed by four full-time staff, is doing increased targeted education, alcohol-free programming and policy oversight/review. The office completed its fifth full year of operation. The office also employs 35 student workers.
- Stanford's clarified Student Alcohol Policy continued to be promoted and integrated into all educational and training efforts. The policy is housed on a centralized alcohol education website (alcohol.stanford.edu).
- Stanford's nationally recognized Cardinal Nights alcohol-free programming initiative continues to provide premium social programming on weekend nights. Over the past four years, the Cardinal Nights program has held three non-alcoholic events each weekend. Also, program evaluation data shows that 26 percent of students who attend a Cardinal Nights program are very likely/likely to have been drinking alcohol had they not attended.
- Stanford will continue to offer a substance-free living option for upperclass students. Feedback from students in the program rated it highly and demand is increasing.
- The OAPE manages the 5-SURE (Students United for Risk Elimination) safe rides program. The program grew this past year and offered 4,927 rides to Stanford students (76 percent female; 24 percent male). That equated to 205 rides per week with weekend nights having the highest use volume.
- Additionally, OAPE continues to grow the new 5-SURE on Foot program, which offers safe walks home and in-the-moment check-in on weekend nights in high-traffic party areas of campus. This past year, the service provided 11,237 contacts. That equates to nearly 500 educational contacts per weekend.
- This year, 100 percent of freshmen completed online alcohol, drug and sexual assault education the summer before they matriculated.
- Stanford continued to collect alcohol and drug use and attitudinal data from a sample of the undergraduate population. The university also collected program evaluation data, needs assessment data and tracked cases and incidents.
